The Lord does not delay

Many of the early Christians expected that the end of the world was coming soon. It was thought to be connected to Jesus' Second Coming. As years passed without either event, some began to question why God was delaying or if the Coming was a myth. The author of the second letter of Peter doesn't try to defend the position but simply reminds his readers that God operates on a different time scale. (Lonsdale Commentaries & Clip Art)
